Justus Onyango
Certificate of Primary Education

I was born on twenty third November 1982 in southern part of Nyanza Province at Rachuonyo District Hospital.

I was brought up in a rural set up in Kambui village where my parents lived. At the age of six, I was enrolled in nursery class at Kakelo Primary School which was about three kilometers away from home.

Eight years later, I sat for the Kenya Certificate of Primary Education examination and joined the Kakelo Secondary School the following for my O-level education. Here, life was completely different. This was the first time I put on a long trouser while in a classroom. The relationship between teachers and students was completely different to that of Primary. The kind of relationship between students and teachers almost approached that of equals.

My favorite subjects all through had been sciences and mathematics. After O-level education I joined the Kenya Polytechnic University College to study diploma in Plant Engineering where I graduated with the same four years later.

My ambition in life has been to be a practical scientist lecturing at higher levels of learning.

I currently live and work in Makueni District with Project Education Inc. as an instructor of physics and mathematics at Clay International School. I plan to further my studies in the field of physics.
